

ROSIE'S SWAP SHOP

It was raining hard in the garden. Raggles was flying his toy plane inside the Playhouse.

Rosie was sitting on the floor painting a picture.

"Watch out!" shouted Raggles, "I'm coming in to land." But Rosie pointed out there was no room to land.

There were toys everywhere!

The Playhouse was messy.
There were toys everywhere.

Rosie suggested they tidy up the Playhouse.

Raggles didn't think this sounded much like fun. He wanted to play shops instead.

"You've given me an idea!" said Rosie.

She knew how they could play shops and tidy up at the same time.

Raggles didn't want to tidy up. He wanted to play shops.

Outside in the garden, Rosie and Raggles had set up a stall.

"ROLL UP, ROLL UP...come and try our special smoothies," called Raggles.

"They look yummy!" said Bluebird. Rosie explained that they would get a free smoothie if they helped tidy up the Playhouse.

Bluebird agreed to help and Raggles handed her a bucket and cloth.

Rosie and Raggles set up a stall in the garden. They gave out smoothies

Big Bear washed the Playhouse windows while Bluebird sat and watched.

"Aren't you supposed to be helping?" asked Big Bear.

But Bluebird decided cleaning windows was silly and went off to relax.

Big Bear cleaned the windows while Bluebird sat and watched.

Holly agreed to help with the cleaning in exchange for a delicious strawberry smoothie.

Everyone was busy with their chores. Except for Bluebird.

Bluebird watched on as she relaxed in the sun.

Everyone was busy with their chores except for Bluebird.

Will was driving his Go Speeder through some muddy puddles when he saw Bluebird drinking her smoothie, he accidentally splashed her with mud.

Will wanted to know where she had got her delicious drink.

Bluebird explained about Rosie and Raggles' stall, but Will raced off before Bluebird could explain about the chores.

Will splashed Bluebird with mud. He wanted to know where she had got her smoothie from.

Will arrived at the Playhouse ready for his smoothie.

"That'll be a box of toys put away please," said Rosie.

Will was shocked. He wasn't going to clean up for anyone!

He raced off to the Orchard.

Will wanted to try a delicious smoothie. But he didn't want to help with the cleaning up.

Will noticed his Go Speeder was very dirty after driving through the mud.

He decided to swap juicy apples in return for cleaning it.

"I won't have to lift a finger!" announced Will.

Will's Go Speeder was very dirty. He thought of a way he could get it cleaned for free.

Will parked his Go Speeder at the back of the Playhouse.

"Welcome to my shop everyone," he called as his friends gathered round.

Will explained that if they helped clean the Go Speeder, he would give each of them a delicious, freshly picked apple.

Will set up his own shop offering freshly picked apples.

Big Bear and Holly rushed to help Will.

"But this is our idea!" exclaimed Rosie, "And these are OUR customers," added Raggles.

It looked like Rosie and Raggles were out of business.

Rosie and Raggles were upset that Will had stolen their customers.

Rosie and Raggles tidied up the rest of the Playhouse on their own.

"It's not half as much fun when there's only two of us," sighed Raggles.

Rosie and Raggles finished tidying the Playhouse on their own.

Later that day, Will set off in his newly-cleaned Go Speeder to deliver the apples.

He visited Big Bear, Holly and Little Bear first.

They caught the apples as Will threw them.

Will accidentally knocked Bluebird off her branch when he threw her apple!

Will delivered the apples in his newly-cleaned Go Speeder.

Back at the den, Big Bear took a big bite out of his apple. "Urrrghh...." he cried, "It's sour!"

Little Bear and Holly both agreed. The apples tasted horrible.

The friends were not happy. They went to find Will to tell him about the apples.

"I've never tasted anything so disgusting!" shrieked Bluebird.

The friends discovered the apples were sour. They were not happy.

Will wanted to make everything right again and Rosie had an idea.

"Let's join our shops together," Rosie suggested.

They decided to mix the sour apples with the sweet fruit smoothies to make delicious apple drinks.

Will's Go Speeder made a great mobile shop and soon they were delivering drinks all over the garden.

Rosie and Will joined their shops together. They made new delicious apple drinks to share.
